

UGLY TIMES UP

Today is the last day of some of your life.

Issue -97: Volume -1

Backlash to Pledge Change Felt Throughout Christian College World

Copies of I Kissed Dating Goodbye to heat school

87% of those who think they are great, are great

Perfectness home self-test kits flying off bookstore shelves.

LOVE IS UGLY

Engage-Mints: they're RDT-licious

Nobot: pre programmed rejection

Turndowntasaurus: no fear of this one going extinct

RDT-rex: feasts on relationships

Canned RDT: kills relationships dead

R-decon-T traps: get rid of relationships with a minimal amount of effort

The president of Wheaton College wasn't prepared for all the ruckus that the pledge change has brought about. Upon hearing the news, students at Cedarville started turning cars over. Rioting and looting were also reported at Moody and Bob Jones University. Classes at Taylor were canceled due to a student-led sit-down strike.

What amazed the Wheaton College administration even more was the way the pledge liberalization affected policies at other Christian colleges. Not to be outdone, Calvin instituted a (very popular) clothing optional day. Hope College did away with the 52" or shorter keg height restriction. Other schools reacted more defensively. Taylor stiffened its penalty for cow-tipping, Oral Roberts University dropped Oral from its name, and Bob Jones University went back to its stronger stance on the Curse of Ham.

We overheard some senior administrative officials in conversation...

"Fifty bucks says this community covenant fosters a more pro-social environment."

- dean of dean's ice cream

"I'll drink to that!"

- vice dean of dean's ice cream

"Put on some hip-hop and let's bust a move."

- tenured 7-day creationist faculty member

"We're going to have to install spittoons in the new student center."

- dean of kicking out